CHAPTER 28

An Act to authorise increased charges for telegrams, and for purposes connected with such charges.
[13th May, 1954]

BE it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1.—(1) The charge for the transmission of a telegram shall be at such rate as may be fixed by or under regulations made under section two of the Telegraph Act, 1885, being, in the case of an inland ordinary written telegram, uniformly and without regard to distance a rate not exceeding three shillings for the first twelve words of each telegram or for each telegram of less than twelve words and threepence for each additional word over twelve

Charges for telegrams.

words, and shall cover the cost of delivery within such limits and by such means as may be prescribed by or under those regulations; and the provisos to the said section two are hereby repealed.

3 & 4 Geo. 6.
c. 25.

(2) Section four of the Post Office and Telegraph Act, 1940 (which provides that regulations made under section two of the Telegraph Act, 1885, may prescribe special terms, conditions and rates for certain telegrams and that a special rate so prescribed may exceed the maximum rate for telegrams provided by the Telegraph Acts, 1863 to 1926) shall have effect as if the references therein to the said Acts included references to subsection (1) of this section.

31 & 32 Vict.
c. 110.

(3) Section sixteen of the Telegraph Act, 1868 (which makes provision with respect to press telegrams and the maximum rates chargeable therefor) is hereby repealed, but notwithstanding anything in section four of the Post Office and Telegraph Act, 1940, in the case of a message for transmission at special rates and subject to special terms and conditions in pursuance of regulations made by virtue of the said section four to a person engaged in the collection and distribution or display of news, being a message—

(a) of a class specified in the regulations; and

(b) for transmission to such a person as aforesaid who has entered into arrangements with the Postmaster-General whereby messages may be sent to him at those special rates and subject to those special terms and conditions, the charge for the transmission of an inland telegram shall be at a rate not exceeding—

(i) three shillings in respect of each address to which it is to be delivered for every eighty words or fractional part of eighty words tendered to be transmitted not earlier than six o'clock in the evening but before nine o'clock in the morning or for every sixty words or fractional part of sixty words tendered to be transmitted not earlier than nine o'clock in the morning but before six o'clock in the evening; or

(ii) where the telegram as originally tendered for transmission is to be delivered to two or more addresses of the same person within such limits as may be prescribed by or under the regulations aforesaid, one shilling in respect of each such address within those limits after the first, irrespective of the number of the words of the telegram.

(4) For the purposes of the maximum rates laid down by subsections (1) and (3) of this section, in calculating the number of the words of any telegram, any name or address, whether of the sender or of an addressee, which is to be transmitted with the message contained therein shall be treated as part of the telegram.

(5) For the removal of doubt, it is hereby declared that the power to make regulations under section two of the Telegraph Act, 1885, as extended by section four of the Post Office and Telegraph Act, 1940, for fixing the sums to be from time to time paid on account of the matters specified therein and for determining the conditions and purposes on which and for which the use of any telegraphs may be permitted includes both power to make regulations fixing or determining, and power to make regulations providing for the fixing or determining of, those sums, conditions or purposes.

(6) In this section, the expression "inland" in relation to a telegram means for transmission between places within the area comprised by the United Kingdom, the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man; and any reference in this section to any other Act shall be construed as a reference to that Act as amended by or under any other Act, including this Act.

2.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Telegraph Act, 1954, and the Telegraph Acts, 1863 to 1949, and this Act may be cited together as the Telegraph Acts, 1863 to 1954. Citation, repeals.

(2) It is hereby declared that this Act extends to Northern Ireland.

(3) This Act shall extend to the Channel Islands and the Royal Courts of the Channel Islands shall register this Act accordingly.

(4) This Act shall extend to the Isle of Man.

(5) The enactments specified in the Schedule to this Act are hereby repealed to the extent specified in the third column of that Schedule.
