

CHAPTER 47

An Act to make further provision with respect to the salaries of certain Ministers and of the Leader of the Opposition; to provide for the extension to Ministers of the provisions of section forty-one of the Superannuation Act, 1949, relating to injuries incurred and diseases contracted in the discharge of duty; and for purposes connected therewith. [17th July, 1957]

BE it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, the amount of certain Official salary or maximum amount of the annual salary authorised by any enactment in force immediately before the commencement of Ministers and of the this section to be paid to the holder of a Ministerial office, being Leader of the an office in the case of which the amount so authorised does not exceed three thousand pounds, is hereby increased—

(a) where the said amount is two thousand pounds or less, by one thousand pounds;

(b) in any other case, by seven hundred and fifty pounds.

(2) Subsection (1) of this section shall not apply to the salaries payable under the Ministers of the Crown Act, 1937, to the Financial Secretary and the Economic Secretary to the Treasury, but the maximum amount of the annual salaries so payable is hereby increased, in each case, to three thousand seven hundred and fifty pounds.

(3) The maximum amount of the annual salary authorised by section five of the Ministers of the Crown Act, 1937, to be paid to the Leader of the Opposition is hereby increased to three thousand pounds.

(4) In this section "Ministerial office" means any Ministerial office within the meaning of section two of the House of Commons Disqualification Act, 1957, and any office of which the salary is paid out of moneys provided by Parliament under section two of the Ministerial Salaries Act, 1946 (which provides for the payment out of moneys so provided of the salaries of certain officers of Her Majesty's Household).

Parliamentary salaries of Ministers.

2. Subsection (2) of section six of the Ministers of the Crown Act, 1937 (which, as amended by subsequent enactments, restricts the payment of parliamentary salaries and allowances in the case of certain Ministers) shall cease to have effect; and for the purposes of the proviso to subsection (2) of section four of that Act (which prohibits the payment of a pension under that subsection to a person who is in receipt of a salary payable out of moneys provided by Parliament) no account shall be taken of any salary or allowance payable out of moneys so provided to members of the House of Commons in respect of their membership of that House.

Extension to Ministers of Superannuation Act, 1949, s. 41.

3. Section forty-one of the Superannuation Act, 1949 (which makes provision for the payment to civil servants and other persons employed in a civil capacity for the purposes of Her Majesty's Government of gratuities and allowances in respect of injuries incurred or diseases contracted in the discharge of their duties) shall apply in relation to persons holding office in Her Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom as it applies to persons employed in a civil capacity for the purposes of that Government.

Consequential amendments and repeals.

4.—(1) The enactments described in the first column of the First Schedule to this Act shall have effect subject to the amendments specified in the second column of that Schedule.

(2) The enactments described in the Second Schedule to this Act are hereby repealed to the extent specified in the third column of that Schedule.

Short title and commencement.

5.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Ministerial Salaries Act, 1957.

(2) This Act (except section three) shall be deemed to have come into force on the first day of July, nineteen hundred and fifty-seven.
